

Let's Do the Math...

Thinking about moving at the end of your lease term to save money? Other communities move in specials look pretty tempting, but we think you'll be surprised exactly how much a "move in special" can cost you. Let's look at the mathematics of it together...

Let's also not forget to figure in $500 for the time and trouble spent packing, $50 for the stress of finding friends to help you with the move, another $200 in pizza and drinks to bribe them for their help. Oh, and don't leave out the inconvenience of an address change, $50, and the annoyance of, and time spent, trying to sort out what cable plugs into what appliance where. That's worth another $50 easily! Those figures included, and the total jumps to $3810. That move in special can't really be all that "special," if it costs you more than you'll save, now can it?
